

Lots to do at the library

The Drayton Valley municipal library had a busy December with programs running throughout the month and over the school holidays.

Local painter and Drayton Valley Fine Arts Society member Carrie Cote, led aspiring artists in a lesson on painting a winter art scene. The paint night was a part of the library's Adventure in Art program that is provided in partnership with the fine arts society. In November Wendy Hewitt led adventure artists in a workshop on Zentangle.

"We also did a Classic Christmas Breakout Box at the library over the school break. If you have never heard of a breakout box before, think of a portable escape room. Instead of getting out of a room, you have to get into a box," said program coordinator Vern Wicks.
